

Diane Bell

Diane Bell served as the BC Federation of Police Officers Manager of Labour Relations from 1988 until her untimely death in 2000. She was a resourceful and respected negotiator. Her dedication to policing became etched in time as a portion of her estate was left to establish a scholarship for post-secondary studies in Labour Relations for children of BC police officers. Diane exemplified the professionalism of what police officers stand for and will continue to influence those who were blessed to know her.